

ABSTRACT

A dynamic document and a method for representing a dynamic document are provided. The dynamic document includes a dynamic document template and an instances set bound to the dynamic document template. The instances set includes a plurality of pointers to a plurality of data sources. The dynamic document template includes a logic section and a layout section, the layout section having at least one layout object.